COLDS GO OVER NIGHT

If your head is stuffed up and you have a hard cold you can quickly get rid of the misery.

First, look after the bowels; any good cathartic will do; then breathe Booth's HYOMEI which promptly kills germ life and heals the membrane.

Breathe HYOMEI (pronounce it High-o-me) in the daytime through the little hard rubber inhaler, and just before going to bed at night do this. Pour a scant teaspoonful of HYOMEI into a kitchen bowl of boiling water, cover head and bowl with towel and breathe for several minutes the soothing, healing vapor that arises. This treatment is also fine for sore throat and catarrh. Complete HYOMEI outfit including inhaler, $1.00; 5 x ra bottles if needed, 50c. However, McCall's is authorized to refund your money if dissatisfied.

Sold and guaranteed in Orleans by F. J. Kinney.

MELLEN STATES HIS POSITION

New Haven Head Makes Denial of Charges Against Him

FIASCO OF THE GRAND TRUNK

Declares He Had No Part In It, Personally or Officially—Says Agitation Against Railway Is Harmful, Affecting Employes as Well as Weak and Evil Minded Persons

Boston, Dec. 22.—President Charles S. Mellen of the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad issued a lengthy statement replying to his critics throughout the country. The statement goes into detail on nearly all the subjects which he and his road have been severely criticized for.

Mr. Mellen said he had nothing to do either personally or officially with the abandonment of the Grand Trunk project into Providence. "I never took a single step, personally or officially, to cause or promote or hasten that decision," he says.

In regard to the agitation against him and his road Mellen says: "The agitation to mislead the people started with my refusal to pay an abnormal price for a privately held block of Boston and Maine shares."

He also declares that the New Haven never bought a trolley line for the purpose of suppressing competition. "The most deplorable of all the results attending the present organized campaign of misrepresentation against the New Haven road is its demoralizing effect upon our employes and upon the weak and evil minded in the community," he adds.

He further says: "We have been obliged for several weeks to have our tracks patrolled and, in spite of the most unusual precautions, have been unable to prevent two notable attempts and several minor ones at train-wrecking. The number of attempts to secure newspaper notoriety by loosening spikes and reporting them to discredit the road has been most deplorable. No road in this country could go through such a fire of publicity and have so little found against it."

Some of the most important features of Mellen's statement follow:

When the Grand Trunk proposed to come into Providence and occupy the New Haven company's rails and terminals, I would have been unfaithful to my trust had I not protested.

The passenger rates on the New Haven railroad today average lower than they were when I took charge of the property nine years ago, and no passenger rate on the Boston and Maine has been increased since I took charge.

The most widely spread and deeply rooted slander against the New Haven management and myself personally is that I agreed in writing never to buy any more traction properties in Massachusetts, and later broke this agreement. No such promise, or agreement, was ever made.

The New Haven railroad is accused of having promised electrification for Boston and breaking that promise. The New Haven said to the public through that commission (commerce and industry) that if it were permitted to merge the properties (Boston and Maine and New Haven) and go on with it plans as contemplated, it would agree that within five years it would electrify the railroads within the metropolitan district of Boston.

The commission refused to recommend legislation for the unification of the properties. All plans for electrification since submitted, except for the Boston and Providence line, have been rejected by the legislature.

New England's railroad system must forever fight in the railroad world for its own existence and the existence of the industrial New England.

DESIGNATED TO KILL KING

Young Italian Anarchist Preferred to End His Own Career

Rome, Dec. 23.—The Giornale d'Italia publishes a sensational story to the effect that a young anarchist, Henry Del Ferrol of San Giovanni, near Bologna, who was designated by lot to assassinate King Victor Emmanuel, attempted to commit suicide rather than carry out his mission.

Perrol, says the paper, is now in a hospital in a serious condition.

Fire Chief Drops Dead

Boston, Dec. 23.—District Chief Robert Ritchie of the Boston fire department dropped dead last night in his quarters on Fireboat Engine 47. He was stricken with hemorrhage of the brain and died before he could be given medical assistance.

Woman Suffrage Favored

Portland, Me., Dec. 22.—A resolution endorsing woman suffrage and recommending that the legislature submit to the people a constitutional amendment providing for it was adopted by the Maine State Grange annual session.

Several from this village attended a surprise anniversary party given to Mr. and Mrs. L. O. Sleeper, on Tuesday evening of last week.

Mrs. C. H. Jones and daughter Carrie have gone to Barton to live, where Miss Jones has a good position as a clerk in Rollins' store.

Miss Ella Gaskell has been quite ill the past week, and is unable to sit up any. Mrs. Ward Wheeler is caring for her and looking after the house-keeping.

All members of the old West Burke band are invited to join the new band which meets at the station on Saturday evenings from 7.30 to 10 p. m. Beginners over 14 years of age are also invited to join if they care to. Dues are 10 cents a week. Wesley Batchelder will be the conductor and F. L. Belanger the general manager.

Mrs. Elvira Taft, widow of the late Alonzo Taft of this village, died at Mount Gilead, N. C., last week, and the funeral took place at the M. E. church in West Burke on Monday. The burial was at Sutton beside her husband. Mrs. Taft was 74 years of age, and has been in poor health or some time. She leaves an adopted daughter, Mrs. Chester Bean of New-ark. She visited in this vicinity last summer, and seemed to enjoy being among her old friends, and seeing the old familiar places. She had many warm friends here, who will be sorry to learn of her death.

SHEFFIELD

Christmas tree exercises were held Tuesday evening.

Percy Barber was in Manchester the last of the week.

George Leavitt recently made a short visit among friends.

The friends of Mrs. Jack Drown are glad to see her out once more.

Mrs. John Arthur slipped and fell on the frozen ground near her home one day last week, breaking her hip.

Albert Merriam's family have all been sick with the prevailing distemper, Mrs. Merriam quite seriously, but all are better now.

Having decided to go by rail instead of by water as first intended, Mrs. McQueen and Mr. and Mrs. Roy Christie will not start for the south until Jan. 1.

The band will present the rural comedy, "A Black Heifer," in Institute hall Tuesday evening. There will be specialties between the acts and a dance after the play.

Claud King has purchased the Mc Gaffey house and moved here. We hear that he is negotiating with parties hoping to start a new business here and hope he may be successful.

The Carpenter house occupied by Will Stimpson came near burning recently from an overturned bottle of kerosene over the stove. Mrs. Stimpson's clothes caught fire but she was able to extinguish them without serious injury and get control of the flames before much damage was done.

The event of the season was the cotillion party given by Miss Brewster at this place on Friday night. The hall was tastefully decorated with Japanese lanterns and garlands. Forty-five couples attended. Mrs. Percy Brewster of Boston presided at the punch bowl, assisted by Mrs. Dow and Miss Amy Blodgett. The Japanese dance and favors were among the pleasant features of the evening. All were liberally showered with confetti as they started merrily for home, each declaring they had greatly enjoyed the evening.
